Agency Loaner Facilities

Facilities held in trust by The Agency for someone else, usually a human agent in Division One.

The Beach

A small, isolated South Pacific island, used as a safehouse and agent vacation spot. It has a multi-bedroom lodge with commons rooms, a large kitchen and dining room, expansive patio, extensive beaches, and a landing strip/hangar. The agent for whom The Beach is held in trust is not currently known.

The Farm

Formerly a small horse farm and orchard in north Alabama outside Huntsville in northern Madison County, the livestock were sold off when the owner became an absentee landlord some years prior to becoming an agent. The Farm is held in trust for Agent Omega.

The Ranch

A working, 1,560- acre ranch in west Texas, well outside Ozona in southern Crockett County, near the Val Verde County line. It is used as a guest ranch (aka 'dude ranch') for vacationing agents and visiting dignitaries, as well as 'civilian' guests who are unaware of the Agency connection but desire a real ranch setting. The historic main house is mostly reserved for the owning agent and his friends and family, but there is a relatively new and spacious guest house with some twenty guest rooms, as well as the original barn- stable combination, a newer separate facility laundry, staff housing, and more. The Ranch is held in trust for Agents Echo and Dihl.

Agency Main Offices

Main offices of The Agency.

Agency Main Offices

Atlanta

The Atlanta Office in Georgia, USA, is just outside one of, if not the, busiest commercial aircraft hubs in the world, the Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International Airport. It controls the second-busiest spaceport on Earth (second only to Penn Station).

Agency Main Offices

Atlantis

No spaceport; underwater. Access is by any submersion-capable craft. No maglev train station. It does help support an underwater theme park for visiting water-breathing offworlders.

Agency Main Offices

Buenos Aires

Chicago

The Chicago Office is likely the third busiest Office and spaceport (at the Chicago Station, outside the city) on Earth, behind Headquarters/Penn Station, and the Atlanta Office. Chicago houses a considerable population of offworlders, many of whom like the climate of the famed Windy City.

Agency Main Offices

Dallas

Agency Main Offices

Delhi

Agency Main Offices

Dubai

Agency Main Offices

Gaborone

The Gaborone Office in Botswana controls the major spaceport on the African continent of Earth.

Agency Main Offices

Geneva

Principally a research facility. Lots of new tech and retrofitted offworld tech comes from the Geneva Office.

Agency Main Offices

Headquarters

Located on Division Avenue in Brooklyn, New York.

Agency Main Offices

Hong Kong

Agency Main Offices

London

Los Angeles

The Los Angeles Office (spaceport: Area 51) is famed for its entertainment industry. Since many of the planets of the galaxy did not develop a film industry as such, movie exports are one of Earth's big moneymakers, and would-be actors from all over the galaxy flock to Earth's Los Angeles Office to 'be discovered.' The front organization, New Worlds Talent Agency, is the legal agent representing these offworld talents, and is a direct subsidiary to the LA Office's organization.

Agency Main Offices

McMurdo

Agency Main Offices

MOSCOW

Agency Main Offices

Naacali

Naacali is the only full Office in the underwater continent of Mu. It has no spaceport; it is underwater. Access is by any submersion-capable craft. No maglev train station.

Quito

Agency Main Offices

Sydney

Agency Main Offices

Tokyo

Agency Main Offices

Agency Stations

Secondary offices of The Agency.

Agency Stations

Area 51 Spaceport

Groom Lake Station aka Area 51 Spaceport is a major spaceport for Earth. It is located near the site of the urban legend, but is hidden from it by being on the opposite side of a mountain. It reports to the Los Angeles Office.

Agency Stations

Atacama Station

Hidden in a corner of the Atacama Desert, the Atacama Station and Spaceport in Peru is the largest spaceport in South America. It reports to the Buenos Aires Office.

Agency Stations

Baikonur Station

Baikonur Station/ Spaceport is a major spaceport for Earth, located in Kazakhstan, and supports western Asia. It reports to the Moscow Office.

Chicago Station

Chicago Station/Spaceport is a major spaceport located in midwestern North America, and while it reports to the Chicago Office, it is not in the city proper, unlike the Office. It is located in the country well outside of that city, to ensure distance from the commercial airport hub and the ability to hide it from too many eyes.

Agency Stations

Kourou Station

Kourou Station/Spaceport is a secondary spaceport facility in French Guiana. It reports to the Quito Office.

Agency Stations

Nhulunbuy Station

Nhulunbuy Station/Spaceport is the primary spaceport for the Australian continent on Earth. It is in the Northern Territory, in the region called the 'Top End,' and reports to the Sydney office.

Pennsylvania Station

Pennsylvania Station and spaceport, aka Penn Station, is the busiest spaceport on Earth. It is outside Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and is the main spaceport serving Headquarters. It reports directly to Headquarters.

Roswell Station

This is a smaller facility serving the alien community in Roswell, as well as providing nearby support to the loaner facility, The Ranch. It is in Roswell, New Mexico, and reports to the Dallas Office.

Agency Stations

Vostochny Station

Vostochny Station/Spaceport is a major spaceport for Earth, serving eastern Asia, in the Amur Oblast of Russia. It reports to the Tokyo Office.

Agency Stations

Woomera Station

Woomera Station/Spaceport is in South Australia state, and is the secondary spaceport for the Australian continent on Earth. It reports to the Sydney Office.

Agency Stations

Zaragosa Station

Zaragosa Station is a secondary spaceport located in Spain. It is often used as a stopover/refueling station by Division One agents. It reports to the Geneva Office.

Agency Support Facilities

Support facilities operated by The Agency

Lunar Farside Drydocks

The Lunar Farside Drydocks are the location for the majority of the larger D1 fleet vessels, such as the D1 Genesis and D1 Revelation, as well as the other battleships and spacecraft carriers. The Drydocks are in a Lissajous orbit around the L2 Lagrange point, and are therefore hidden from Earth view by the Moon itself. There are large cloaking fields that can be activated to hide it from any non-Galactic spacecraft that may orbit the Moon, so it remains unknown to the bulk of the planet's population.

The Crypt

An underground burial site for agents killed in the line of duty, located beneath Arlington Cemetery; more specifically, it is located directly—and symbolically—beneath the Tomb of the Unknowns. It is accessible via a maglev tube train which runs from the rear of the Headquarters Chapel to the front of the Crypt chapel.

The Treehouse

This is a special property deliberately acquired by the Agency in the Pacific Northwest, on the Washington coast on the Olympic Peninsula not too far from Seattle, on the outskirts of the national park. The property was undeveloped, and the Agency built the eponymous structure on it in order to provide for a regular safehouse/ vacation getaway for its people. Security is high, both on the Treehouse itself, and around the property overall.

The Vault

It is believed to be an underground, ultra- secret, ultra- secure storage facility of highly classified location, for dangerous items, or those items which would become dangerous to Earth by the revelation of their existence here. It is so secret that not even the Director knows its true location, and outside his immediate circle of critical department heads, it is at most a rumor. Said rumor purports that it is accessible by a classified maglev tube train, known only to the Director, Alpha One, and possibly one offworld advisor.

Antagonist Facilities

Facilities operated by antagonists/enemies in the series.

Antagonist Facilities

Geretan Aggum's Headquarters

Local Stations

Local Stations partake of something of the flavor of a local or regional airport, only for interstellar travel instead of local air travel. They are way stations, often present simply because of a localized population of extraterrestrials.

Big Indian/Willowemoc LS

Big Indian/Willowemoc Local Station is in upstate New York, in Big Indian Wilderness, Willowemoc Wild Forest. It is a secondary, hidden spaceport and airport, where many of the lesser-known craft are kept for Headquarters. This includes Alpha One's T-Bird T-38, as well as the tender for the D1 Revelation, Assistant Director Echo's personal flagship.

Local Stations

Cairns LS

The Cairns Local Station in Queensland is a small secondary spaceport serving the local offworld population. It reports to the Sydney Office.

Houston (TX) LS

The Houston (Texas) Local Station is largely a maglev terminus, supporting the local offworld community, most of whom are there to support the Johnson Space Center, a field center for NASA. The maglev terminates under the JSC headquarters complex of buildings. There is no spaceport. It reports to the Dallas Office.

Huntsville (AL) LS

The Huntsville (Alabama) Local Station is largely a maglev terminus, supporting the local offworld community, most of whom are there to support the George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, a field center for NASA. The maglev terminates under the MSFC headquarters complex of buildings. There is no spaceport. It reports to the Atlanta Office.

Local Stations

Lemurian LS

The Lemurian Local Station, located under the Pacific Ocean, serves the local offworld water-breathing population. It does not have a spaceport. It is currently very small due to seismic instabilities. It reports to the Naacali Office.

Local Stations

Stockholm LS

The Stockholm Local Station is a small spaceport serving the local offworld population. It also performs research in conjunction with, and reports to, the Geneva Office.

Local Stations

Vienna LS

The Vienna Local Station in Austria serves the local offworld population. It reports to the Geneva Office.

Educational Facilities

Division One University

A duly-certified university in the Pan-Galactic Coalition university system. It provides education from high school equivalency diplomas all the way up through doctorates in many different fields. This enables agents to complete or continue their education after induction into the Agency; many add degrees unrelated to their previous degrees, as they see what their jobs require. It also provides advanced education for the offspring of agents, embassy staffers, and alien emigres.

Heltor Couture House

A couture fashion design house and shop. Owned and operated by Kiaiala Heltor.
