

Frequently Asked Questions

A collection of FAQs to help make finding information easier.

- Organization
  - Are there spoilers on this site?
  - Where do I find information on book releases?
  - Where does the content of the site come from?
- Searching
  - How do I search for words with special characters in them?
- Technical Questions
  - How do I create an account?
  - How do I report a problem with the site?
  - What software is used to run the site?

Organization

Questions about how information is organized here and where to find it.

Are there spoilers on this site?

Yes. There are many spoilers here, including information from the most recently-published books. If you don't want to see spoilers, please don't view the articles on the site.

Organization

Where do I find information on book releases?

We have a Book News section just for that! Find announcements and news, where you can buy the books, and links to reviews.

Organization

Where does the content of the site come from?

The author provides the information to a small group of fans who help maintain the site.

Searching

Help with using the Search feature.

How do I search for words with special characters in them?

If you're searching for words that have special characters in them (e.g., Ke!endarian), place quotes around the search term. For example: "Ke!endarian" instead of Ke!endarian.

Technical Questions

Questions about the site itself and the software that runs on it.

How do I create an account?

Currently, there is no way for a visitor to create an account.

How do I report a problem with the site?

You can report any problems here (we need someplace or some email address they can send bug reports to).

Technical Questions

What software is used to run the site?

We use BookStack.